MISSIP OF THE RUNNERS. MOULD HAVE A PINE PIELD.

eting Events This Week at the ach-Compute's Victory in Foxhall Stakes Further Complicates the Question remany Among the Two-You The Brighton Cup, weight-for-age race point to a sensational struggle. While bable that the field will not be a large still it should be select and productive still it should be select and productive sigh-class sport. The victory of Blues the Islip Handicap will probably cause the colt to be backed quite a bit, but it is nore probable that Alcedo and Ethelbert, they start, will be held in higher esteem. thelbert won this event last year in das od rest and may be sent to the post, If can be made fit, it would not be surprising the son of Eothen and Maori become g favorite with the betting public once ic since the Brighton Handloap, when e was a disappointing first choice, but trainer McCormick is almost sure to start Keene's colors may be borne by Conroy. It is out of the question, of course, to expect Commande to run, but Conroy, it is believed as been slowly recovering from the lameess with which he was afflicted shortly fter his great victory in the Brooklyn Hanicap. If Trainer Rowe thinks the colt has chance he will be sent to the barrier, and he does start he will have a big following among the talent. Prince of Melbourne, at his best now, will undoubtedly start and is support will make him close to favorite. Ronnibert and The Parader are also in the list, and it is said both will run. Prince Mc-Clurg is another probable contender. Terminus is also eligible and so are All Green MeMeekin, Sidney Lucas and Rochester. Ethelbert and Prince McClurg are scheduled carry top weight, 127 pounds.

The week at the beach in addition to the above event will bristle with interesting stake races. Beginning to-day the feature of the eard is the Glen Cove Handicap for threeyear-olds at six furlongs. To-morrow the Atlantic Stakes for two-year-olds at five furlongs may include Alibert, Cast Iron, Halber-dier, Highlander, Laodice, Lady Holyrood, Meridian, Oom Paul, Smart Set, Sombrero. Vagant and others. The Seagate Stakes for three-year-olds at a mile and a furlong should bring out a noteworthy field, as high-class horses are eligible.

As the Brighton meeting draws to a close the quality of the racing appears to improve daily. On Saturday Starter Fitzgerald had a series of big fields to contend with, and he handled them well. In the second race he got eighteen horses away so neatly that the got eighteen horses away so neatly that the crowd applauded. Some persons called the start in the Foxhall Stakes poor, because from the stand the field appeared to get away from the tarrier in two divisions. As a matter of fact, however, the start could not have been more perfect. Andrew Miller, one of the stewards, was at the post, and he said that the horses were sent away with perfect alignment. The two-division scheme of sending the horses away from the "chute" is due to a stretch of quicksand in the middle of the gack, which the jockeys wish to avoid. As the starting point is at an oblique angle from the grandstand, many persons are inclined to criticise starts as being poor when in reality they are perfect.

Compute's victory in the Foxhall Stakes was the talk of the turf world yesterday. It was generally agreed that the colt, on his work early in the spring, should not have been overlooked by the shrewd men who figure horses all the time. Compute was was full of promise when he first came out for this season's campaign, but be was seized with the coughing epidemic that took such a firm hold on a lot of good horses in the spring, and was on the sick list for a long time. Indeed, it was said yesterday that when he went to the post for the Foxhall Stakes Compute was far from well and had it not been for the masterful riding of McCue he would have been beaten possibly by both Hyphen and Goldsmith. As it stands, the two-year-old situation is about as complex as it possibly can be.

Though Alan-a-Dale was signally beaten on Saturday his owner, T. C. McDowell, declared after the race that the Halma colt could not be purchased from him for less than $50,000. It is said that Mr. McDowell received an offer of $25,000 for the colt last wask and quickly refused. Mr. McDowell, declared after the race that the Halma colt could not be purchased from him for less than $50,000. It is said that Mr. McDowell received an offer of $25,000 for the colt last week and quickly refused. Mr. McDowell, by the way, says that he has not been engaged by W. K. Vanderbilt to train the latter's horses, but that he has entered into a partnership with the well-known millionaire by which he will look after the latter's interests on the turf. Mr. McDowell will probably manage Mr. Vanderbilt's stable while a well-known trainer will do the actual work of preparing the horses.

The action of the stewards of the Jockey Gub in ruling Jockey Combs and W. P. Ware off the turf for life means that both of them will be barred from every racetrack in the world. It is the most serious punishment that can be inflicted and it is the first time in a number of years that the stewards have resorted to such drastic methods. The simple revocation of a license was considered effective enough, but in the cases of Combs and Ware the extreme penalty was deemed necessary. Ware is the man who originally brought Jockey. Landry here and turned him over to T. J. Healey. It was said yesterday that Ware engineered the deal by which Combs received $500 for pulling Wax Taper on June 25.

The riding of H. Michaels during the past week was nothing if not effective enough to prove that this boy has the making of a great jockey. In two instances he met the noted Shaw in driving finishes and in each case the former triumphed. It was only by superior riding too, that enabled Michaels's mounts to win, and that fact made his success all the more noteworthy. Shaw's weakest point is in finishing. He can only use his hands, whereas nearly every other good boy is an adept with the whip. Patsy McCue, for instance, is one of the strongest finishers before the racing public. McCue, by the way, never rode better in his life than at present. Several weeks ago the boy was a wreck. He had been living a gay life and the riding of horses became a secondary iss

GERMAN EMPEROR BUYS SHOW HORSE.

Bosrow, July 21.-The latest American purchase of the Emperor of Germany is a steed, King, the handsome Kentucky-bred horse of Rudolph Clasen of Brookline. On Wednesday next Mr. Clasen will sail from this port and on board the same steamer will be the thoroughbred horse. Three years ago King won a blue ribbon at the Boston Horse Show. Later biograph pictures of the horse and owner were taken and these were shown here and abroad. The animal has about every gait that man can teach various other exercises.

Not long ago these pictures were shown in Germany and an official high in the German Army was captivated by the horse. He at once opened negotiations with the owner here. Photographs were sent to the Kaiser with a lotter stating that the horse would be an ornament to the Emperor's stable.
The other day Mr. Clasen received a letter bearing the Imperial coat of arms, sunmoning him to Germany with the horse King.
On the same ocean liner will be Alma, he in horse shows and that will become the property of Gen. von Behack of the German Army.

King is 7 years old, and has been the property of Mr. Clasen for about three years. He weighs about 1,060 pounds and is 15% hands high. At the Boston Horse Show two years ago the horse won first prize in a field of ten exhibitors and last spring he won second prize. King is unfamiliar with military work He is a show horse in every sense of the word. Alma is one of the best jumpers in this district and has a record for clearing the bars at 5% feet.

Mr. Clasen is well known in German Army offices. For several years he taught riding in the German officers' cavairy school. He was the instructor of Counts Herbert and William Bismarck, sons of the late Prince Bismarck, and of Prince Ratibor.

Results of the Sectional Games Will Show the Strength of the Eastern and Western Clubs -- Brooklyns Have Done Good Work Away The long stretch of intersectional games in the National League came to a close yesterday The programme has been East vs. West since May 14, with only two or three interruptions, will be a welcome change. The relative strength, team to team, of the Eastern clubs as not received the opportunity of being teams as compared to the Western. The schedule now calls for six weeks of East vs. East and West vs. West games, the Western teams appearing in the East again on Labor Day. In the time between now and then t will be interesting to note and the result will have an important bearing on the pennant-whether the stronger teams of the East do as well as the stronger teams of the West. to date the advantage of this coming stretch of games lies with the West; that is, St. Louis and Pittsburg have the better outlook for improvement for the reason that at Cin-cinnati and Chicago they have as opposition two teams of less strength than the weakest

Another advantage the West has is that the season practically closes there. But to offset these conditions is the fact that in the period of time of more than two months in which the two sections have been pitting their strength against each other, the Eastbee been a pretty nearly even thing, but the majority of games have been won by the teams of this half of the circuit. That this s so is due chiefly to the good work of the Brooklyns and Philadelphias. Each of these teams has won more games than it has lost against the West, while New York and Boston have found it an uphill task to keep page with the Western men. The good road work of the Brooklyns is an encouragement to their friends in the belief that they have sufficient strength to finish at the top again. On the same line of argument the St. Louis players also have a good chance.

Pittsburg and St. Louis naturally have seen doing well in the intersectional series and their combined work compares favorably Cincinnati and Chicago have not done as well as New York and Boston and thus far he intersectional games, as well as the total games played show the Eastern four to be tronger than the Western four as a whole Individually, this is not the case, according to the figures. Pittsburg and St. Louis are at the top, and one cannot get away from the

The main source of percentage profit to the New Yorks has been the Cincinnatis, while Pittsburg and St. Louis have done most to pull them down. Chicago has not been the snap for the Gothamites that was exthe snap for the Gothamites that was expected. On home grounds the New Yorks have given a stiff argument to Pittsburg and St. Louis, but reckoning on both home and away from home games, the Harlem men have not shown themselves able to hold up their end with these two strong teams. Brooklyn so far has won a majority of games from three of the four Western teams, only St. Louis elading them in the interclub series. The even, steady strength of the Cardinals is shown by the fact that they are ahead in every series with the Eastern teams. The Pittsburgs would have done as well if they had not found Brooklyn such a stumbling block. As between the Hanlon style of ball and the game as expounded by Fred Clarke the honors are all with the formor.

straight. St. Louis won ten out of cleven games once, and Pittsburg won nine out of ten. The Cincinnatis hold the record for consecutive reverses with ten. The Chicagos have nothing quite so continuous, but they are not at all deficient in quantity when it comes to losing streaks, having spells of six, five, five again, and eight straight defeats.

The intense eat caused the players to lag in their play. Chance was overcome in the seventh inning and compelled to retire. There was sensaand compelled to retire. There was sensational fielding on both sides. Capt. Davis and Selbach carried off the honors on their side, while Childs and McCormick made several difficult stops for the locals. New York started the scoring in the first inning. Yan Haltren sending a screeching double to centre and scoring on neat sacrifloss by Selbach and McBride. In the fifth inning Hickman reached second, Hartzeil dropping this fly after a long run. When Strang beat out a bunt Hickman got third and scored on Smith's sacrifice. Taylor sacrificed Strang to third and Van Haltren got abase on balls. The latter stole second, but was left with Strang when Childs made an pretty pick-up of Selbach's hot one back of second. The New Yorks were dangerous in the sixth inning. Davis had reached third on a single, a wild pitch and Ganzei's sacrifices, but was left when Childs made another stop of a liner from Hickman's bat that brought the crowd to its feet. The Chicagos made two runs in the third inning on an error by Hickman, a base on balls and two singles. They secred two more in the sixth inning on two singles and a double. Their last run came in the eighth inning, when Raymer hit a slow one to Strang, who fielded the ball quickly to Ganzel, and apparently had his man out. The umpire, however, said he was safe. Then McCormick rapped out a triple over Selbach's head. Score:

St. LOUIS, July 21.—The Cardinals defeated the Cincinnatis by a score of 15 to 2 to-day. Murphy wirled a splendid game for the local team, but Guess and Stimmel, McPhee's new "finds," proved easy, being hit at will. The former lasted one inning and a half. The visitors made half a dozen costly errors, showing their demoralized condition. Marcon made the first run for the visitors in the second linning on a three-barger and Pox's out to firsts. In the eighth inning Crawford got a hit and later scored the second and last run for the Reds.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 21,—It is said on good authority that the umptres of the New England League have addressed a round robin to the Secretary of the league in which they make a demand for more money. They ask for $7 for each game instead of $5. It is stated that if their demands are not complied with by Monday next they will resign.

Discussions pro and con continue as to the relative speed of the two big leagues, but there is just this much: The American League was admittedly strengthened by National League players. There are more players of that caliber in the National than in the America and the National rules are more conductive to fast leaf the the question.

At Chicago they say Loftus will not manage the play. Too bad we cannot have a post-season series to settle the question.

At Chicago they say Loftus will not manage the National League team another year and that he may not serve this season out. It is said that he is looking around for a new berth in baseball and has eyes on the American League. In the old Western League Loftus, with Johnson and Comiskey, was one of the controlling spirits. The latter two did not relish it when he signed to manage the Chicago Nationals at the time the Western invaded Chicago.

St. Louis, July 21.—Emmet Heidrick, the well-known centre fielder of the St. Louis club, will probably never again be seen on the diamond. He left last night for Brookville, Pa., to attend the funeral of his father. Before going East, Emmet stated that his father had long pleaded with him to withdraw from the game. It is his intention now to settle down and care for his mother while looking after the vast lumber interests his father had in and around Westbrook. Wis. Heidrick was injured at the opening of the season with Brooklyn and since then has been unable to play.

Josh Rogers said last night that the race between Charles Monerie's Isaac, 2:22, and Nat Ward's Quarterstake, 2:16, scheduled to take place on the Speedway next Saturday, is off. NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN

There was an abundance of sport ensation furnished at the Vailsburg meet yesterday, although the attendance of about four thousand was smaller than usual. John Bedell of the Kings County Wheelmen started in as a professional and essayed to but was defeated. The sensationalism o the day turned on the way that Gascoyne was treated relative to his pursuit race with Fenn. The race was unlimited, and in an affair of this kind Gascoyne never before was defeated. Yesterday the pursuit was called after the final of the half-mile race that Gascoyne had won. There was a buzz of protest among the spectators, who love fair play and realized the injustice of such an arrangement. Gascoyne made no protest. He rode and was beaten. It is customary at all meets to alternate events so as to give the men who ride in one race a chance to rest before starting in another but this consideration was not accorded to the Englishman Hurley, the new star in the amateur firmament, captured both the open and handleap events for amateurs handly. Boston, July 21.—Robby Walthour defeated Will Stinson and Jinmy Moran yesterday afternoon at Combination Park in a fifteen-mile paced race. The track is a dirt one, one-half mile, and the motors cut into the material, kicking up a dust that half blinded and choked the riders. Fast time was impossible, but Walthour covered the fifteen miles in 27 minutes 15 1-5 seconds, leading Stinson by three-quarters of a mile at the tape and Moran by over a mile.

At the Grand Circuit meet last night at the Revere Beach track the one-mile professional championship went to T. J. Gascoyne, the English rider, with Tom Cooper second. Time, 2.59 1-5. They were the only ones to qualify for the finals. "Major Taylor failed to be placed in the second grand semi-final heat, although he showed up speedily in every heat except that. The three-mile professional open event went to Freeman, with Newhouse second and Downing third. The five-mile open amateur was won by Joe Curry, with Charles McConnell second and Louis Mettling third. Time, 11:41 2-5.

NEWPORT, July 21. Several young men had an automobile race yesterday between this city and Boston, hoping to make the round in their object, although they had a good run and considering that none of the machines was a racing machine, they made good time. The start was from the old Ocean time. The start was from the old Ocean House stables, at 7:30 o'clock, and there was a sprinkling of society people to see them off. There were five starters. William H. Sands. Jr. Louis De Forest, Paulding Fosdick, J. McWilliams Hamilton and Henry Buil. Mr. Buil dropped out of the race at Tiverton, twelve milee. Late this afternoon word was received from Boston to the effect that Mr. Hamilton had won on the run out, arriving at Boston at 11:48, covering the distance of about seventy miles in 4 hours and 18 minutes.

between Jim Jeffries and Gus Ruhlin the battle will probably be decided at San Francisco. The champion, who is in that city, is authority for this statement. In an interview yesterday the boilermaker said:
"I ain't broke, and I don't have to fight. If they will make it worth while I will face Ruhlin at 'Frisco, but if they don't I wont fight at all. The arrangements must suit me first. The battle will take place as far as I can see just now, at 'Frisco because there is no other place where there would be any money for us. But I am not saving that I want to fight Ruhlin. Everything depends upon the terms my managers are able to secure.
"It is my intention to remain in California the whole winter, and if Ruhlin wants to fight he must suit my convenience."

ECHOES OF BIG REGATTA:

LOCAL WINNERS OF NATIONAL ROWING HONORS WELCOMED ON THE HARLEM. Champion Sculler Ten Evek Angers

Retirement, but Challenges the World First -Evils of Racing With a Turn Discussed

Harlem River oaremen gave a royal welcome to C. S. Titus of the Unions and Mul-cahy and Kafka of the Atalantas, who re-turned to the river yesterday fresh from their victories at the National Regatta. The members of the clubs whose crews were defeated found some satisfaction from the fact that New York took its fair share of the honors, with two wins, a percentage that was also obtained by Toronto, Philadelphia and Worcester, while Winnipeg, Detroit St. Louis and Newark each scored one victory. It was agreed on all sides that never in there been a regatta more replete with in-cidents and sensations. The defeat of the loted Vesper eight was the most fruitful topic of conversation. It was the general optnion that the failure of the Philadelphians to maintain their winning streak against the Canadian crews was due more to lack of proper training than to any inferiority in watermanship. There was a rumor before the race mananip. There was a rumor before the face that one of the crew was so well aware of the poor condition of some of the men in the eight that he made a bet on the Argonaut orew the day before the race. One explanation of the defeat of the Vespere was that their boat struck a log in the course after going half a mile. It was about this point that the "Winnipeggers" began to cut down the Ves-pers' lead. According to this story the first badly and contained a lot of water when badly and contained a lot of water when taken out at the clubhouse. Whatever the cause of the Vespers' defeat the Argonauts have every reason to feel proud of their victory. Their joy is increased because a trip to Henley was promised them, and unless Canadians are parred by the Henley stewards in future, which is improbable, the crack English crews will have to row against the champions of America next year.

Henley stewards in future, which is improbable, the crack langish crews will have to row against the champions of America next year.

The returning New Yorkers were level in praise of the excellent management that prevailed during the two days of the regatta. It was in marked contrast to the lack of punctuality that is a feature of the regattas held in the vicinity of New York. The arst race on the Schuylkill began precisely at the moment scheduled and on each day the full programme was concluded before the advertised time. There was only one foul during the two days, and that did not affect the placing of the first crew, as the Harlem Rowing Club four crossed the hows of the Clifton Boat Club crew when both were well besten by the Passaics within a quarter of a mile of the finish.

There was only one feature that came in for severe criticism, the rowing of championship races with a turn. This is an old grievance, but the unfairness of the method was so apparent during the regatta and the hostility of prominent oarsmen so outspoken that a movement to abolish turn rowing would be welcomed and strongly supported at least by the New York division. As a means of testing the speed of the crews engaged, the races with a turn proved a flat failure and the spectators that followed the oarsmen in launches always reserved making a prediction as to the winner until after the lottery at the turn. The most remarkable instance of the injustice of the turn was in the senior four-oared shell race on Friday. The Vespers led the Western Rowing Club four by a length at the turn, but being slightly out of their course they made for the wrong stake. The Westerners came up on the inside as the Vespers were making their surn, and to avoid a collision the Quakers had to work fully three lengths and the St. Louis crew won by that distance.

As previously announced by me in March last it is my intention to retire from rowing at the end of this season. I have rowed, representing the Wachusett Boat Club of Worcester. Mass., at almost all

It is my wish before retiring to meet any and all amateur scullers in the world, provided I receive notice of their intention before Aug. 1, 1901. I shall impose only one condition, and that is that the race shall be rowed on Lake Quinnigamond. Worcester, over the old college course, the best and fairest course in the world.

While in convention at Philadelphia the N. A. A. O. made an attempt to settle the much-vexed question of the status of college coarsmen. The retiring President, Claude R. Zappone of Washington, presented a report recommending that winners of college freshman eight or four-coared races be classed as intermediate carsmen; that winners of fours a second time or of the triangular or the Varsity eight-coared races, which is practically composed of winners, should be classed as seniors, and that winners of college single soull events should be classed as seniors. This was referred to the Executive Committee with power to act. Following are the winning crews in the twelve races decided during the two days of the regatta:
